

Synthetic parsing fixture

This original document contains fabricated text for automated parsing tests.

A researcher places three blue blocks and two green blocks on a table.

The total number of blocks is five. No observations were collected.

The document contains no personal records or external source material.